What is APHASIA?

Aphasia affects a person's ability to find words and to understand language, both spoken and written. Aphasia ranges from mild to severe and can be a long-term condition which impacts whole families. It is isolating, frustrating and is usually acquired without warning, most often through stroke but can be a result of a brain injury or rare dementia called Primary Progressive Aphasia (PPA)

More than 350,000 people in the UK are living with aphasia

One in every three strokes results in aphasia

9 out of 10 people have never heard of aphasia
